

Honda SL70 K0 - Shock Style Research

The one known running change that Honda made during the manufacturing process of the SL70 K0 was the style of the rear shocks. First up was a shock that was very similar to that of the CT70, but without the body colored top cover. Second generation is a more sleek, longer lower shock body with a retaining ring for the spring. Current research shows that Honda made the shock change somewhere between VIN# 38369 and 43709. If you have any VIN Numbers that fall between these and are sure that your bike is original, please submit your information to me at: marblesmotors@gmail.com
